

I'm not robot

Continue

Blocking calls on android turbo

To speak properly, most of us are actually stressed by anonymous numbers or by phone requests. This is a worrying event however happy to know that the Motorola Droid Turbo 2 could become its partner. You'll discover three sources to avoid phone calls (blacklist phone numbers regularly) with your Motorola Droid Turbo 2 (published in October 2015). None of these methods are essential to the root of your Motorola Droid Turbo 2. It's easy to avoid a given phone number or all your private calls on the Motorola Droid Turbo 2 let's discover the first strategy, through integrated Android block options one number on your Motorola Droid Turbo 2 with Android 5.0 Lollipop right from the built-in call log: Unlock your Motorola Droid Turbo phone app 2 click on three dots on the right side of the screen Press Reject Call Rejection from Private Tick Numbers You can actually add numbers from here with the setting menu of your Motorola Droid Turbo settings 2 checking settings and then touch Touch Call Reject Calls from private touch numbers if you need or else put a number from your contact list to contact you looking to block a number with your Motorola Droid Turbo 2 Thanks to your carrier you can use your phone carrier to block unwanted phone calls. The following service will depend on your processor. To discover more when it comes to blocking numbers, you can actually enter your personal space and then click Settings. Often blocking numbers is free however, not all the time, so be cautious! However, if you can find a blocking number on your Motorola Droid Turbo 2 using your mobile carrier, you can easily call them on internet sites just like Twitter or Facebook. Generally speaking, they respond faster there! Blocking a number on your Motorola Droid Turbo 2 via third-party apps intended to block phone calls if you find that blocking a phone number via Android or through your mobile phone company in Motorola Droid Turbo 2 is actually stressful, don't worry! You can actually use a third-party app that completes the task for yourself. All apps in this article are free and virus free! Use one of your phone number blocker apps on the Motorola Droid Turbo 2 via the url listed below and appreciate the silence as before! As you can see, it's very easy to block an anonymous number or banish a phone number with your Motorola Droed Turbo 2. You have a choice between three simple techniques. Do you handle blocking this phone number on your Motorola Droid Turbo 2 after our article? Let us know! Drop the comment down below © keep getting spam calls from the same number recently, and I went online to my Verizon account to block the number. However, when I tried to apply it, I got an error message saying that I could block it. Interestingly, the system applies blocks to my spouse's iPhone. Is an alternative way to Past calls from a Party 3 program? Thanks! 17. February 2016, 01:44 am [#2 Recognized Atlanta contributor, Georgia donated to me more quotes: Originally posted by jco23 I keep getting spam calls of the same number recently, and I went online to my Verizon account to block the number. However, when I tried to apply it, I got an error message saying that I could block it. Interestingly, the system applies blocks to my spouse's iPhone. Is there an alternative way to avoid past calls from a 3rd party plan? Thanks! Some umms have this feature they're built into -- like CM. That's not party 3 program. Blocking calls on CyanogenMod other than that, I'm using an RCB blocker, but I'm rooting and it's a 3rd party app. Root Call Blocker Pro amp;amp;hi=en if it's a landline number you can use the service: but it doesn't work with mobile phones. 17. February 2016, 02:03 am [#3 finally discovered it. Had to chat with VZW and they had to enable the Blocking Calls and Messages feature in my account. I couldn't do it myself online, only at your end. 17. February 2016, 05:29 AM [#4 Senior Rockies member most of what I've done is make a call called Block, tick the box to send to audio, and then set the alarm to none. You can add more than one number to these contacts. Naturally, it only works for numbers that you can save. 17. February 2016, 02:31 PM [#5 Senior Member of St. Petersburg, FL further comments on the question: Your comment on this answer: Report this ad access resource center jump to the original content on all my past Android phones in the dialer you can go to settings and see a list of numbers you blocked and add new ones to your blocked list. Where's this in 4.4.4? 11-06-2014 01:25 am like 0 good, no has to figure out how to stop certain callers by phone number on this device? In my previous S3 there was a call settings menu where you can block the last caller, add any number to the blocked contact list, and check/edit the list of numbers you placed in the blocked contact list. I can't even find a call settings menu on this device. Otherwise I like Turbo, but I find menus that come up when you touch 3 small spot bare bones compared to what was in my Samsung when you hit the Capi Capita keys settings/menu. I suppose there's an app for this, but I know it's already part of the operating system, it's not just showing anywhere. 11-07-2014 07:48 AM Like 0 Only via Google Voice (from desktop). And maybe a certain amount. Like Samsung used to have. Via AC App on VZW Moto X DE/N7 11-07-2014 07:54 AM Like 0 If you have the number in your contacts, you can go to that contact and from the menu select the number to be sent directly to voicemail. Not exactly a block, but it will at least keep the number from ringing in. Connected Thumbnails 11-07-2014 07:57 AM like 0 Good, no understanding how to stop specific callers with phone numbers on this device? In my previous S3 there was a call settings menu where you can block the last caller, add any number to the blocked contact list, and check/edit the list of numbers you placed in the blocked contact list. I can't even find a call settings menu on this device. Otherwise I like Turbo, but I find menus that come up when you touch 3 small spot bare bones compared to what was in my Samsung when you hit the Capi Capita keys settings/menu. I suppose there's an app for this, but I know it's already part of the operating system, it's not just showing anywhere. Just because it's on your S3 doesn't mean it's part of the operating system (AOSP). People knock touchWiz all the time, but it definitely provides some features that folks rely on. I hope you find a solution that works for you. Posted via Android Central App 11-07-2014 07:57 AM like 0 thanks for the response. I'm not coming back because of how good this beast is, but I guess I'll miss some touch-wiz features. I'm sure there's a plan I can find for this. I know I can block incoming calls from verizon's website, but that's saturated at 5 p.m. and you have to re-enter every 5 days. 11-07-2014 10:30 am like 0 I have been using a call blocker app from devmain available in Google Play there are several free apps like this 04-10-2 015 05:18 Like 0 I have been using a call blocker app from devmain found in Google Play there are several free apps like this looks like a good app, whether it's ad support & if so, is there a buy-in-app option to remove them? I've come to hate ads and happily pay a few dollars for a good free app from them. 04-10-2015 08:32 PM Like 0 In the menu for individual contacts, there is a send option to audio. 04-11-2015 11:29 AM Like 0 0 In the menu for individual contacts, there is a send option to audio. I'm using this feature now. I have entered a call for the blocked caller set to send to audio and add any undesirable numbers to this call. Works well enough but really rejecting calls (gasp, alla iPhone call blocker) would be even better. In fact, I can't understand why it's not cooked into the operating system instead of relying on manufacturer customization. 04-11-2015 03:01 PM like think Verizon every 3 months. I have to go back to mine at 16. 04-12-2015 03:16 PM Like 1 good no has to figure out how to stop certain callers by phone number on this device? In my previous S3 there was a call settings menu where you can block the last caller, add any number to the blocked contact list, and check/edit the list of numbers you placed in the blocked contact list. I can't even find a call settings menu on this device. Otherwise I like Turbo, but I find menus that come up when you touch 3 small spot bare bones compared to what was in my Samsung when you hit the Capi Capita keys settings/menu. I suppose there's an app for this, but I know it's already part of the operating system, it's not just showing anywhere. 02-28-2017 01:51 AM like 0 try adding numbers to your contacts, going to hangouts and blocking them from there. 02-28-2017 01:52 AM like 0 set to send caller to VM under call. Select Edit, then select 3 buttons in the top right corner. A drop-down will appear and then check the Send Call box to VM. 03-03-2017 02:32 am like 0 0